To A Cheapskate Date

To A Glutton

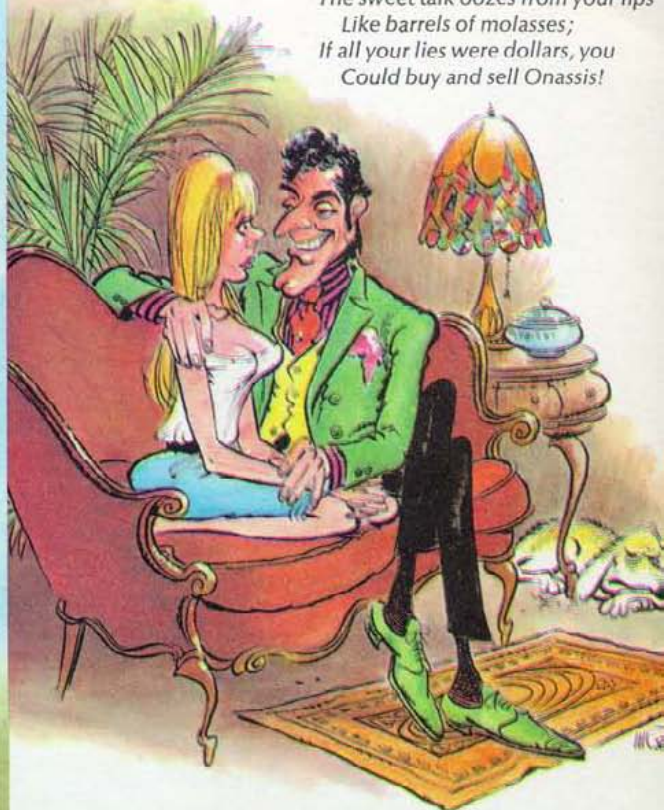

TO AN OFFENDER

Your breath is like a garbage dump,
But, heck, why should you mind it?
It's us who get it in the schnozz—
You get to stand behind it!

TO A LYING SWEETHEART

The sweet talk oozes from your lips
Like barrels of molasses;
If all your lies were dollars, you
Could buy and sell Onassis!

TO A GOLD DIGGER

You won't let guys make out with you
Until they spend their dough;
The way you lay it on the line
You really should turn pro!

TO A BORE

Each endless story that you tell
You've told eight times before;
I'm trying hard to stay awake—
But I... um... (yawn)... zzz... (snore)!

TO A GOLD DIGGER

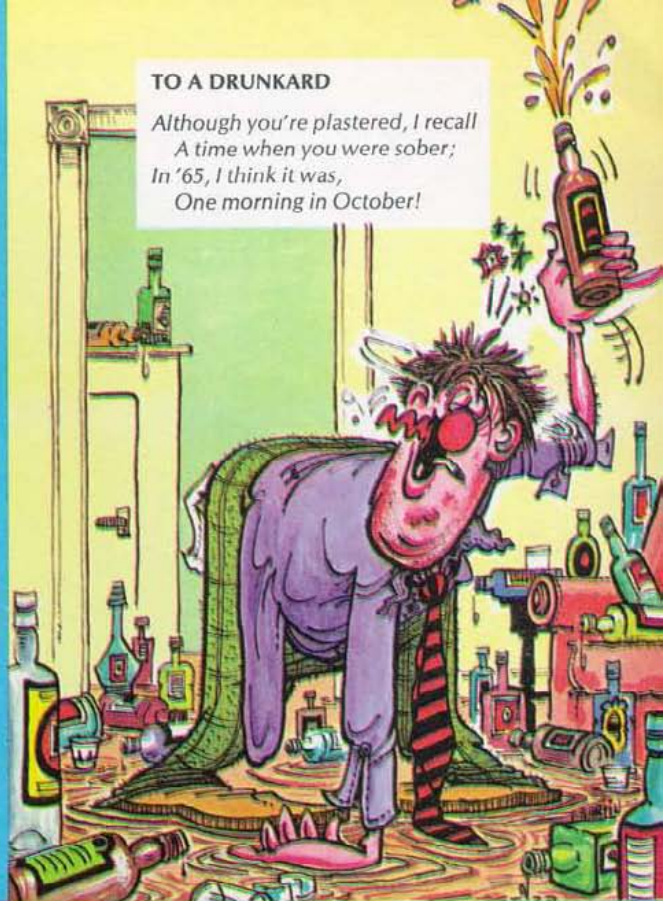

TO A NOTHING

Though many folks I can't forget,
With you, it isn't hard to;
In fact, I can't remember now
Whom I addressed this card to!

TO A DRUNKARD

Although you're plastered, I recall
A time when you were sober;
In '65, I think it was,
One morning in October!

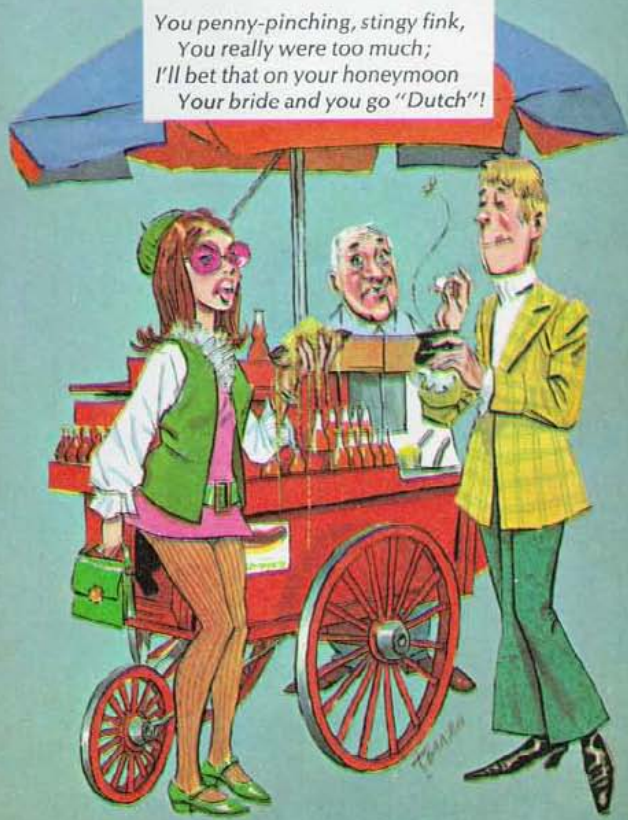

TO A SLOB

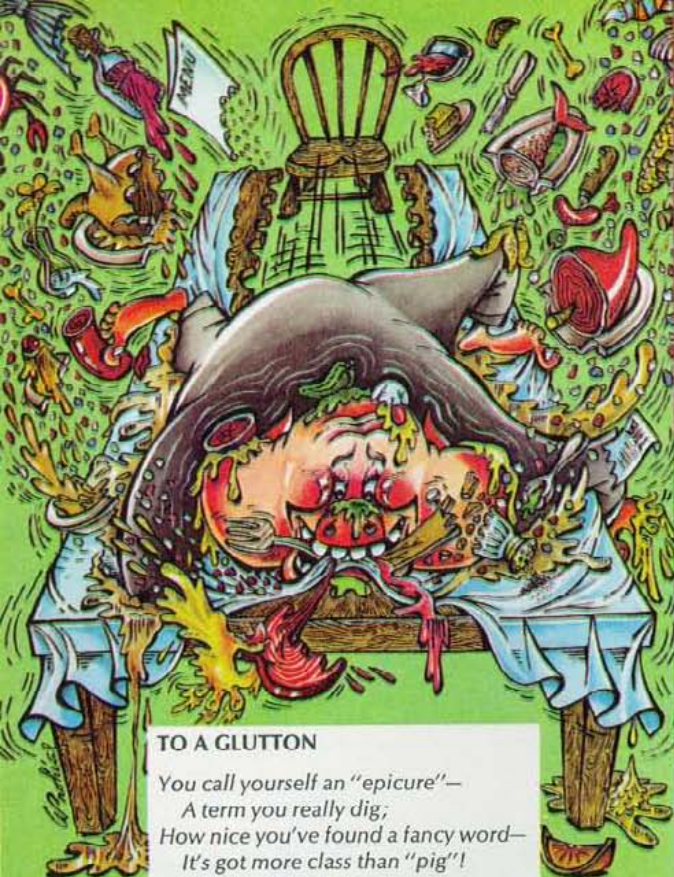

You pick your nose, you belch, you drool,
You constantly are scratching;
I don't know what your problem is—
I just hope it's not catching!

TO A CHEAPSKATE DATE

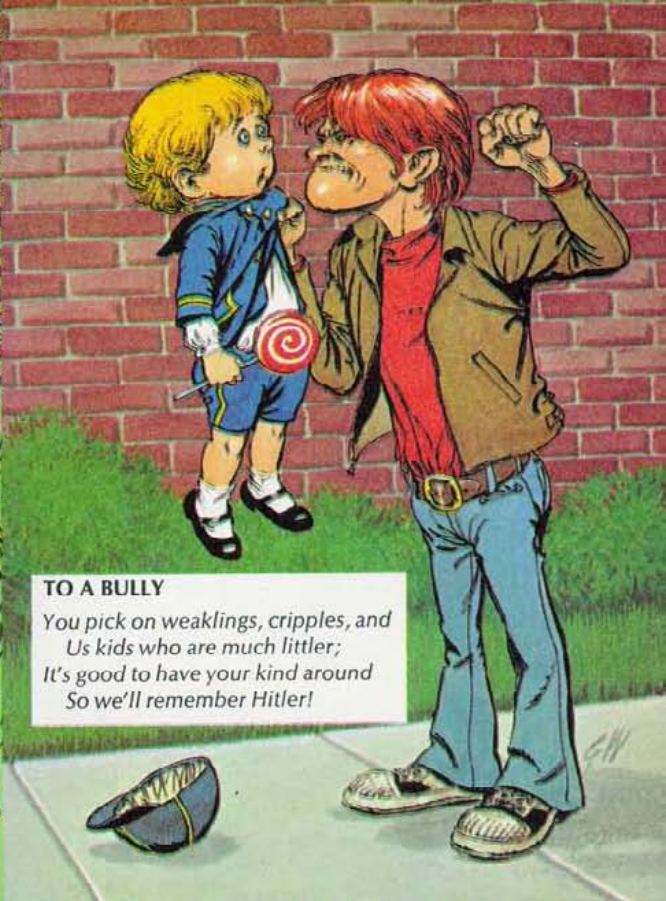

You penny-pinching, stingy fink,
You really were too much;
I'll bet that on your honeymoon
Your bride and you go "Dutch"!

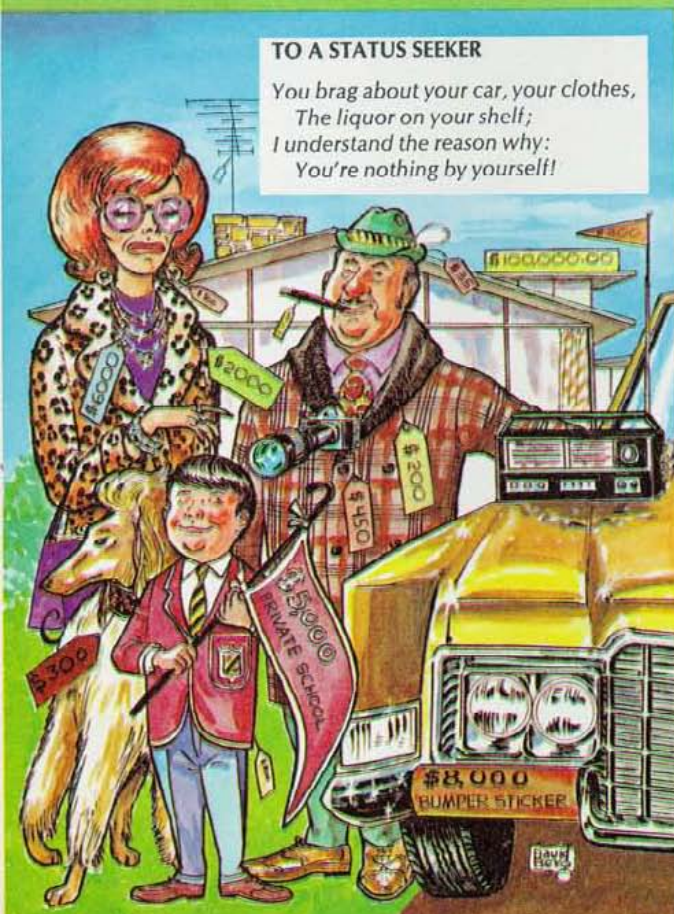

TO A GLUTTON

You call yourself an "epicure"—
A term you really dig;
How nice you've found a fancy word—
It's got more class than "pig"!

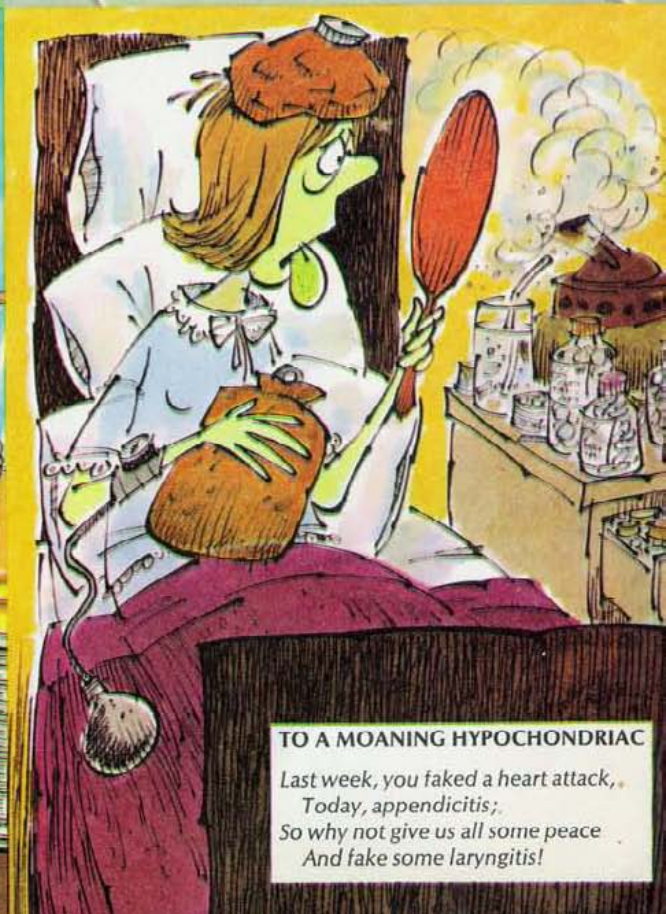

TO A BULLY

You pick on weaklings, cripples, and
Us kids who are much littler;
It's good to have your kind around
So we'll remember Hitler!

TO A STATUS SEEKER

You brag about your car, your clothes,
The liquor on your shelf;
I understand the reason why:
You're nothing by yourself!

TO A MOANING HYPOCHONDRIAC

Last week, you faked a heart attack,
Today, appendicitis;
So why not give us all some peace
And fake some laryngitis!
